

What's Wrong with This Picture?

Image Copyright © 2007 Flickr user Stillframe

The Scenario: A public speaking contest is taking place at 5pm tonight. The client is a VIP and has just called the CIC to say they are already on their way. They will be here in 15 minutes, and there are still errors in their room setup!

The Challenge: Due to an improbable accident in physics lab last week, you are trapped in a quantum dimension and cannot physically interact with matter to complete the setup yourself. You must give clear instructions to your "crew" (the judge!) on exactly what needs to be completed before the client arrives to check your work. The setup worksheet for this reservation is attached for your reference.

Please Note: There is no physical work to be done at this event, simply point out the problems as fast as you can. Some are direct contradictions with what the notes say; others are violations of standard expectations. The more you find, the more points you get. Good luck!

Winter '10 Setup Olympics